

19th IUAES -WAW World Anthropology Congress 2023 NEW DELHI

INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

The Internship Program is meant for research scholars registered for Ph.D /M.Phil in anthropology or allied disciplines in any university. The purpose is to build up academic competencies by grooming them in the disciplinary practices of world anthropologies. The upcoming World Anthropology Congress-2023 in New Delhi becomes a context where they get involved as, but do not remain confined to the role of volunteers.

The international team of interns are supposed to extend technical support in terms of conference media, branding, preparation of book of abstracts, conference stationary off /on site management of conference spaces, academic edifice of the conference and beyond. At the same time they will be exposed to international authorities in various sub-fields of anthropology

This online program will begin from December 2021 and continue for nearly one year. A team of internationally reputed experts shall be mentoring and grooming these scholars with personal touch.

The scholars would give at least 2 hours in a week and up to 10 hours in a month. Certificate of completion will be issued to successful interns by IUAES and congress organizers.

Interested candidates may apply online along with a recent CV and a passport size photograph. A brief para on current research and future plans (250 words) is desirable.

Applications may be sent to: wacinternship2023@gmail.com before 15 October 2021.

Limited seats are available for such a life time opportunity. Scholars aspiring to attain a global pitch in the world of anthropology are encouraged to apply. We are committed to the principles of diversity and inclusion on the basis of gender, caste, ethnicity, disability, specialization, interdisciplinarity and geographical representation.